SHR IPL hair removal

SHR technology is one of the quickest and most convenient methods of hair removal, it allows you to save time and have silky smooth skin all year round.

SHR stands for super hair removal which utilises the most advanced “in motion” technology to carry out a virtually painless hair removal treatment.

Research has shown that a slower but longer heating process is considerably more effective for permanent hair removal than high and short levels of energy. SHR is able to output 10 shots at 1 second and make treatment time moveable allowing for shorter treatment times.

SHR can be used for hair virtually anywhere on the body.

Our SHR/IPL Specialists have had extensive training in this new technology so you can rest assured you are in safe and professional hands.

A full and comprehensive consultation and patch test is required before any treatment can begin. The health of your skin is important to us and we never guess when it comes to the health and well being of our Clients. Consultation and Patch test is $40 fully redeemable on any course purchased.

electrolysis hair removal

Electrolysis hair removal refers to the practice of electrically removing hair from the human body. When hair is removed in this way, the effects are almost always permanent. It involves several steps or treatments to be completed, and is done by inserting a needle-like probe into a hair follicle, and passing an electrical current through it. Any areas of the body can have hair removed in this way.

Electrolysis is an effective treatment for both Vellus and Terminal Hair.

- Vellus hair is soft, fine, and short. Most women have vellus hair on their chest, back, and face. It can be darker and more noticeable in some women than others, especially those with darker complexions.
- Terminal hair is coarser, darker, and longer than vellus hair.

It is recognised as the only proven permanent hair removal treatment and has been around since 1875.

Skin Needling (CIT)

Skin needling is a skin rejuvenation treatment that helps you restore collagen and elastin through a natural healing process. Ultra fine, medical grade needles attached to a needling pen create multiple skin punctures that induce a wound healing response that stimulates new collagen and elastin production. New collagen and elastin improve skin quality and texture, making the skin feel firmer, smoother and aids in the repair acne scars and fine wrinkles. Skin needling also assists with the repair of stretch marks and surgical scars.
